Q: Blender 2.8: use strip modifier on B[one] instead of B[Three] I am having a little trouble finding an answer to this question in google. Can't seem to find it in blender's user guide either. I have B+H and B+F objects, and my main problem is that B+H always gives me the top face of B+F and B+H+F always gives me the whole B+F object. I would like to be able to control the top face of B+F by using a Strip modifier on the top face of B+H instead of the whole B+H object. Is there a way to do that? I'm looking for a good reference or a link which would help me out, but I am having some trouble finding a good link to start my research. I will be very thankful for the help! :) A: The Strip modifier allows you to control the strip's thickness and orientation. In this case, you need to create the top face of the hollow object into a strip. Once you have done that, control the cross-section of the strip using the arrow buttons on the Strip modifier > Cross-Sections list. To remove the top face of the object, select it, press P to place it as a new object, then select the top face to delete it. This is how your workflow will look like when you are working with strip modifiers. Q: Can't delete pointer value? So i have this struct: struct action { string m_name; action* m_next; }; where the method void action::remove() { //if(isEmpty()) { m_next->m_next = m_next; } //else { m_next = m_next->m_next; } delete m_next; } in main i have action p = new action("one"); and everything was fine till i tried to delete it: action p = new action("two"); I expected that the function would be automatically called if

Q: fadeout instead of replacing in jQuery Is there a way to fadeout the element and animate it to the center instead of replacing it? If not, please give me some advice on how to do it. Here is my example: $(function(){ var id = $('').length; var $all = $(''); $all.each(function(i){ $(this).click(function(){ $all.fadeOut(400, function(){ $all.eq(id-1).fadeIn(400); }) return false; }) }) }) .box{ background: #337ab7; width: 200px; height: 200px; text-align: center; line-height: 200px; color: #fff; font-size: 1.4em; margin: 10px; border-radius: 5px; transition: all 0.5s; cursor: pointer; } hello hello
